CHERRY GROVE

Just met Mrs. Homer Solomons on the streets of Benton about the time I had my mind all fixed on some steady news for the "Old Reliable Sheet." She says, "I'll be back for you at 9 o'clock to go to an all day quilting at Mrs. Charlie Cole's, and that has me excited. So should I make mistakes and say this married man had a date with Miss So and so just know it wasn't a real happening for things do not happen that way."

Mrs. Lee Cole is in the hospital in Mayfield at this writing.

ing. We are all very anxious for Mrs. Cole's speedy recovery and back home again. Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Ivey had six o'clock dinner with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. McGregor Saturday evening.

Mrs. Willis Smith had a quilting at her home on Thursday last for her son, Mr. Milburn Smith in Detroit. Mrs. Ewen Copeland and daughter, Helen; Mrs. L. A. McGregor, Mrs. Owen and Mrs. Sample Nelson were the quilters.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Ivey and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. McGregor were visiting Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Harper.

Ye Scribe had for her company Saturday night Eld. Jno. Henson and wife of the county, also Eld. J. M. Brand and wife of Fulton, Ky. These servants of the most High God spent several hours of the evening entertaining a few gathered together in our home with 't'bits of the Gospel—that we hope we found to be a savor unto Life.

Mrs. Rebecca Gregory of Fair Dealing spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Gervin Hamilton of Route 3. She and the Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton together with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Locke of Brewers, Ky., also Ye Scribe attended church at Mayfield on Saturday morning.

Mr. Dewey Riley tells me on this bright crisp morning that he has been making several towns in and around Benton with a fruit tree agent delivering trees sold in the spring from a reliable nursery, by a reliable agent. We all should love our little farm and cherish it enuf to keep fruit for the growing kiddies. "An apple a day keeps the doctor away."

We always think "our little farms" should give us a nice living. But often in my case I find it's stingy with its giving. We have to toil and sweat and tire with so much cultivation, turn right around and see no return. I often wonder why the beans without seasons just can't make it—just look about and see the weeds without any seasons how they "take it."

N. Church Grove don't worry about what people think you know you can think too and how quick you can chell and Driscoll. Driscoll might write more about Capt. Kidd his dog—and Winchell might know more about the dates of P. D. R.'s family circles increases—but you can keep up with your end of the news best I know of any reporter.

Mrs. Pearl Vaughn complimented my news item last week. Also Mrs. Luke Lyles and Mrs. Java Gregory.

Archie Weston, a tall, lanky youth, Kenton Holland.

Della, colored woman, Flora Lee Holmes.

The Benton High School basket ball team was dropped viciously around the heads of an inferior, but hard fighting aggregation from Aurora last Friday, and exploded with a sudden crash that brought the Indians a total of 41 points while an airtight defense held the invading quintet to 11. The scoring star of the game was alt. captain John Ed (Lefty) Smith, who accounted for 14 points. Displaying a fast breaking offense that accounted for 24 points by the half, it was made definitely apparent that our boys have begun what we are hoping and predicting to be one of the best basketball seasons in Benton High School history.

Another great improvement is being added to our list of school equipment. The new double-deck lockers that DON'T "take chances" with unknown products to relieve discomfort of your child's spasmodic coughing caused by colds. Use "Children's" Mustrale! Mustrale gives such QUICK relief because it's not "just an ordinary salve." Rub it well on your kiddie's chest, throat and back. It soothes and stimulates surface circulation and helps break up local congestion and pain. Its soothing vapors ease breathing, etc. Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau.

Attendance Is Good at First Christian Revival

Much interest is being manifested in the revival meeting which is being conducted at the First Christian church by Robert L. Stewart, pastor of the First Christian church of Dyersburg, Tenn. The attendance at the Monday and Tuesday night services was large. The subject discussed Monday night was "Evangelize or Die." The evangelist, used for the basis of the 13th chapter of Hebrews and the Great Commission as recorded in the 28th chapter of Matthew. It was clearly pointed out that the Christian religion was a revealed religion, a religion of faith in the facts of the gospel. It does not wait for people to come and see, but it goes and takes, and tells others of the matchless Christ and his powers to save.

Tuesday night the subject was "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning." The following points were elaborated on: 1. The simplicity of Christ's teaching; 2. The Christian as a lower light; 3. Christ as the control light; 4. Lights began to burn on the day of Pentecost; 5. All Christians must live as the Bible teaches and eradicate sin through the gospel, thereby making a world light.

The public is invited to attend these services which are held nightly.

Erosion Control Cooperatives

Farmers a good many years ago found that local cooperative organizations gave them many advantages impossible to obtain as individuals. They found that through organization the interests of the individual could be protected and the rapid growth of recent years could be maintained in a testimonial to their understanding of the rural dweller.

It is surprising, then, that few all over the nation are organizing to fight the greatest common enemy, erosion. It has been noted that soil erosion is a big problem for one man to tackle. It is understood that soil erosion is a community problem; that the best way to tackle a community problem is through community action.

Farmers, 36 states, therefore, are organizing erosion control cooperatives legally known as soil conservation districts where there is local organization and managed by the farmers themselves. Through these districts it is possible for farmers to receive the assistance of state and federal agricultural agencies—assistance such as the advice of trained technicians, use of special machinery and equipment, use of CCC labor, grants of materials, such as seeds and trees, and even special financial grants. Such assistance is available only where there is local organization.

About 200 soil conservation districts have been organized in the United States to date. As many more are somewhere in the process of organization. Thirty-six states have authorized them by special legislative acts. Kentucky is not one of these states. If Kentucky farmers are interested in gaining the right to organize these associations it will be necessary for them to support such legislation already proposed for this state.

Hampered by the Navy in their earlier efforts to seize the city, the enemy mustered all its forces in an effort to overwhelm the Americans in one final attack. The decisive defeat of the British and the death of their leader is now history.

Yet few persons know that the U. S. Marine fought shoulder to shoulder with the troops under Jackson's command, and that some of them lost their lives in the heroic defense of the city. They received high praise from their leaders, while their valor and good conduct won special recognition by Congress.

More than ten years before the famous battle the Marines established a post at New Orleans, mainly as a base for sea soldiers assigned to gunboats operating in that vicinity. They helped to suppress a negro uprising in 1811 and fought a yellow fever scourge here the same year, two officers and sixteen men dying of the plague.

They toiled ceaselessly to salvage lives and property when a great hurricane all but destroyed the city in 1812, and were conspicuous in the early development of

SINGING
THE G...
Not home could afford in the old days, just every home has a piano now, but every home has a community instrument anyway, and could be whenever it was set Sunday afternoon official time to where place where there organ and sing until time to go home to feed.

It was necessary to be a real to play the accompaniment to the songs we sang good chords would not know how to sing soprano and then the bass. Most of the house had to confess to pretty their training.

of the harm done on Sunday. Most of us knew this and acted accordingly.

There is something very appealing to me yet in seeing people gather around the organ to sing. There is a neighborliness in it all, which Seth Parker, in his radio programs, has perpetuated in our sophisticated time. Old people, with broken voices often joined in with us, moved by the spell of other times and places.

A word should be said for the organ, for most organs were worthy of notice, both for what they could and for what they could not do. Seldom did an organ keep its true tone for more than a few years. If there were mechanics who could help them, I never met any such. Sometimes a key would get stuck and carry its tone right thru the whole piece. Still more often the octave stop would get out of order, so that a note might be a mile too high. But people around the organ, singing lustily because life was sweet, did not pay much attention to such minor things as a note's being obnoxious.

Very rarely we opened the front room on other days besides Sunday. Then anything was appropriate, even fast melodies. Select company sometimes came on off days and could play the organ in any way they chose. Comic songs thus sometimes got to us, songs that we clung to ever afterward. Many times the one who played the organ on such occasions sang the song himself, doing what we all admired as something skillful, both playing and singing.

The radio brings us great things, things I enjoy as much as any one, I am sure. But sometimes I long for a full-voiced group of amateurs around the organ or, now, the piano, a group that takes seriously the responsibility of providing its own entertainment.

J. A. KRUG, TVA POWER ENGINEER, ANSWERS POWER SHORTAGE CRITIC

J. A. Krug, Chief Power Engineer of the Tennessee Valley Authority, today branded as "absolutely unfounded" stories and editorials appearing in the Chicago Tribune and Business Week saying TVA is faced with a shortage of power because of the drought, and commented that the stories represented "some remarkable 'about faces' among critics of the Authority's power operations."

The stories and editorials emphasized that TVA is generating power in steam plants acquired during the last year and that Norris reservoir has been drawn down below the dam crest.

"The fact is that TVA, after five years of harassment by private power monopolies, has finally achieved normal utilization of its power system. We are selling our full output, but we are maintaining adequate reserves and new plants are under construction to provide for normal growth. Much of the steam power being generated by TVA is being sold at special steam power rates to neighboring private power systems to help them maintain their power supplies," Mr. Krug said. "Commonwealth and Southern subsidiaries are taking over 50,000 kilowatts of steam generated power from the authority, in addition to running their own steam plants. The Aluminum Company is buying steam power from the Authority rather than curtail its manufacturing operations because of the shortage on its own hydro system."

RED CROSS OPENS CAMPAIGN TO WIN KENTUCKY ADULTS

The Kentucky Red Cross is starting its annual Rollcall of the Adult members today. The purpose of the campaign is to bring the Red Cross into the homes of every adult in the state.

With the beneficent work of the Red Cross fresh in memory—it did its greatest work of rehabilitation following the Ohio river floods of 1937 and the "flash" floods in Eastern Kentucky early in 1939—workers were optimistic in regard to success of the current rollcall.

There were reported enthusiastic over the prospects for enlisting a record number of men and women in the Red Cross, and what the organization has done for citizens of Kentucky routed from their homes by floods alone, in the past few years, was advanced as the best argument why every Kentuckian should join.

With the beneficent work of the Red Cross fresh in memory—it did its greatest work of rehabilitation following the Ohio river floods of 1937 and the "flash" floods in Eastern Kentucky early in 1939—workers were optimistic in regard to success of the current rollcall.

It was pointed out that in addition to its work at home a great task faces the Red Cross because of the war in Europe and that the American Red Cross is assisting there where its help is needed and can be of greatest benefit.

44,000 In Nurse Reserve

Attention is being directed by Red Cross workers to the nursing reserve of more than 44,000 women, pledged to emergency service in disaster, war, and epidemic, and to the growth of the First Aid instruction work, in which during 1938 a total of 643,000 persons were giving training. Kentucky leaders in the Red Cross Rollcall hope to double the membership in the state, compared with the figures for last year, it was announced in connection with the opening of the drive.

The rollcall started in Kentucky with better preparation than has ever marked a campaign of like character before in the history of the Red Cross in the state. Every chapter is "on its toes" and organization down to the precinct and school district indicates that no adult will escape opportunity, if not opportunity, to become a member of the Red Cross.

"SILVER ON THE SAGE" TALE OF RANGE CLASH

"Hopalong Cassidy" turns to cards, shooting and plain old-fashioned hand-to-hand fighting to deal with his enemies in "Silver on the Sage," the latest "Hoppy" range drama to reach the screen, next Saturday at the Benton Theatre. It shows "Cassidy" going into action when frontier outlaws steal a consignment of cattle belonging to his own "Bar 20," murdering a wealthy land-owner, and pinning the crime on his best friend.

Fish Saved in This Section by State Officers

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 16—Prompt action on the part of the Conservation Officers of the Division of Game and Fish in the western part of the state saved countless thousands of fish during the recent spell of dry weather, which gripped the state for more than two months. Many sloughs and bar pits, of which the western section of the state has many, dried up or became so low that the fish were bound to die within a very short time. So the Conservation Officers removed the fish and transferred them to fresh water where there was no danger from the drought. Approximately 50,000 fish were removed from the stagnant sloughs and bar pits and transplanted to deeper water within the past month.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS TO OPEN MEET FRIDAY

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 16—A spirited fight is in prospect for the coming convention of Young Democratic Clubs when a new president will be chosen, also a National Committeeman and National Committeewoman and lesser officers.

The convention, to be held next Friday and Saturday at Louisville, finds four active candidates in the field for the presidency. The inside track is generally conceded to County Judge W. H. Crowder, Jr., Mayfield, 33 years old, long active in Young Democratic circles.

Judge Crowder has the solid backing of all fourteen county delegations in the First Congressional District and substantial backing in the other Congressional Districts of the State, including the good wishes of powerful figures in the State administration, and also of Eugene Mosley, Jr., Bedford, past president, and Chairman of Young Democrats for Keen Johnson in the recent primary and general election.

SPORTSMAN'S CLUB OUTLINES AIMS AT MEET

Cooperation Is Wanted Between Hunters, Farmers

At a meeting of the Marshall County Fish and Game Association held at the Roberts Rexall store last Thursday night officials and members discussed the aims of the club and pointed out that they were trying in every way possible to cooperate with those on whose land quail were hunted. According to one of the officials, it was stated that some criticism has been made by several farmers in this county in regard to the organization, the misinformed parties thinking that only club members could enjoy the privileges of hunting, which was of course erroneous.

The club is seeking to keep Marshall county hunters within the law; they are also trying to teach people not to be game and fish hogs; to insist on hunters respecting the landowner and teaching the younger hunters what sportsmanship is.

The club is also endeavoring to restock Marshall county with game and fish. Over 100 quail were released in this county from the State hatchery in April and it was pointed out by one club member that if all the birds were destroyed in a period of 15 years that it would be impossible to raise a sprig of grass or a stalk of corn. These are serious matters to consider and deserve the support and cooperation of everyone.

The club is also looking to the future. If steps are not taken now to observe fish and game laws and conserve these resources there will be nothing for future generations to hunt.

The Sportsman's Club invites the cooperation of every landowner and citizen in the county in their efforts to do the right thing. They said they do not want to see the county turned over to fish and game law violators.

Rabbit, Quail Season Opens On November 24

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 16—Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, calls to the attention of all hunters the fact that the season on Rabbits and Bob White Quail opens on November 24.

The hunter's attention is called by Governor Chandler more than a month ago setting aside November 30 as Thanksgiving Day. As the result of this proclamation the hunter will be able to enjoy that particular holiday in the fields in the pursuit of the rabbit or quail. President Roosevelt proclaimed November 23 as Thanksgiving day, but due to the confusion raised by this change, Governor Chandler proclaimed the last Thursday in the month as the day on which to give thanks.

The Division of Game and Fish has received numerous requests within the past several weeks asking that the hunting season be moved up one day in order to have the opening on November 23, but this could only be done by an act of the Kentucky Legislature and as Thanksgiving Day will fall just one week later, on November 30, that will not be necessary.

From reports received from every county in the state this is going to be the best hunting season Kentucky has ever had. Since the day Daniel Boone first gazed upon the land known to the Indians as the "Happy Hunting Grounds."
